

Have you recently (within the last year) used a home treatment service?

Or are you a family member or carer of someone who has recently used a home treatment service?

If so, you will have a real understanding of what it is like to use or support someone who uses the home treatment services. Your understanding, ideas and feedback could help us improve the services.

We would like to invite you to a:

Group meeting where we will be trying to find out what is important when:

- Home treatment is considered as an option
- Staff, service users & family explore whether it is the right option and identify what is needed
- Staff from other teams involved in a persons care work alongside the home treatment team
- People come to the end of using the home treatment service

At the meeting, people who use services and family members/carers will be able to talk separately about these things. People with experience of using mental health services will facilitate the discussions as we have found that people often feel more comfortable and able to give honest feedback if staff are not present.

Further information

What would I get out of the meeting?

Many people find that participating in meetings like this is a satisfying experience and value being able to help to improve services.

There will be information available about other involvement opportunities. Some involvement opportunities are voluntary and others are paid.

Will I get my travel expenses paid?

Yes, if you bring your ticket, we can reimburse you for the cost of your travel

I would like to come, but need some support to get there

Please contact Alice Glover (details above) to discuss what you need

I can't come to the meeting, but have feedback / ideas to give

We would still be really interested to hear your views, please contact Alice Glover to talk on the phone, or email your views directly to alice.glover@slam.nhs.uk
